

WEBT-Topic

For our project we decided to come up with our own topic, so we didn't use any given topics provided to us. The topic we chose is online shopping.

For the content of our website we wanted to write about the history of online shopping; its early beginnings, the meteoric rise of online shopping, why it became so popular, who the biggest players are in it, who the biggest losers are because of it, the pros and cons of shopping online and how online shopping became even more prevalent during a global pandemic.

The website will be a static HTML-page where the reader is going to be able to read about the above mentioned topics. We will present our findings as objectively and unbiased as possible, nevertheless we will give our own opinions on it at the end of the website. We will write about our own opinions, if we shop online, if we think it's a good thing that it became so prevalent and what we think will happen in the future.

For our web app we wanted to make an online shop. You will be able to search and shop for specific items you want to purchase. It basically means that you will be able to search for an item and you will be able to purchase that item. You will also be able to use filters for that item so for example one of the filters will be the cheapest item that we could find, another filter will be the healthiest option out of all of them. All of those items that you want to purchase will be put into a shopping list and all the prices will be added together. Different people will be able to upload their products and the prices and quantities. When somebody purchases that item the seller gets an Email that their product was purchased.

So as an example, let's say you want to buy bananas and apples. You will type those two items into our search engine and you also select the filters (nearest to you, cheapest and healthiest). Our web app will then find the cheapest and healthiest bananas and apples that are located the nearest to you, it will then give you the results and who the seller is. You will be able to purchase those items then and put them in your shopping list.
